1. Claims 1- 48 are presented for examination.

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 17 and 41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 17 and 41, the function performed by the control unit is ambiguous as to what aspect of the writing of branch-history information is controlled. It is also not clear how not operating the return address stack unit is of any significance, if the branch instruction is not executed, because one would not need to operate the stack if the branch instruction is not executing. (The limitation surrounding "if branch instruction is not executed" is very ambiguous.)

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-7, 9-13, 15, 18-25, 26-37, 39, and 41-48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tran et al, U.S. Patent No. 5,875, 324.

Tran et al teaches the invention as claimed in claim 1 including a branch history information write control device in an instruction execution processing apparatus comprising :

(a) a memory unit storing an instruction string (col. 6, line 6),
(b) a branch prediction unit performing a branch prediction of a branch instruction (220),
(c) a control unit controlling in such a way that writing of branch history information in the branch prediction unit and control over the memory unit may not occur simultaneously (col. 10, line 41), and further teaches as in claims 2-7, 9-13, 15, 18-25,

(d) wherein the writing is in timing such that said memory unit cannot accept an instruction request (col. 10, lines 65-67; col. 11, line 11; col. 11, line 49) – claim 2,
(e) wherein the writing is in timing for making an instruction pre-fetch request (pre-fetch is not based on fetch PC address and hence can be made while fetch PC address is invalid) – claim 3,
(f) wherein the writing occurs after several clock cycle from the branch misprediction (correct address is fetched after the misprediction; col. 2, line 25) – claim 4,
(g) wherein the writing occurs after a re-instruction fetch request (for correct address; col. 2, line 26) – claims 5 and 9,
(h) wherein instruction cache is provided and the writing occurs after a cache miss (col. 11, line 1) – claims 6 and 7,
(i) wherein a write reservation station for temporarily storing the history information is provided (256; col. 10, line 25) – claims 10-13, 18, and 19,

Art Unit: 2183

- (j) wherein the history information for uncompleted branch instruction is held in the reservation station for immediate second branch instruction (col. 10, lines 44-54) – claim 15,
- (k) wherein the control unit identifies each instruction by an ID (250, col. 10, line 28) – claim 20,
- (l) wherein the history information in the reservation station is nullified upon occurrence of interruption of execution of the branch instruction (nullifying stale data upon interrupt is well known) – claim 21,
- (m) wherein the history information in the reservation station is bypassed to the prediction unit (col. 10, line 43) – claims 22-24,
- (n) wherein dual port for writing and reading is used for holding history information (col. 2, line 4) – claim 25.

The method claims 26-37, 39, 42-48 are equivalently rejected based on the same reason.

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Hilgendorf et al taught a method of predicting return addresses.

7. Claims 8, 14, 16, 38, and 40 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
